PROFILE INFO

Throughout my university education, I have joined quite a few subbing teams that worked with several content providers. Netflix and Amazon were among the major platforms on which I had the chance to prove my translation works.

Following my graduation, I decided to gain experience on content writing. While my translation background was helping immensely with improving my content writing abilities, I still had to learn a lot about SEO focused content writing. And that's where the experience I had with Brands&Clicks and Optimist Hub stepped in.

Then I decided to take a step ahead and expand my skill set on web development. In June 2022, I started my self-taught journey with online courses provided by Codecademy and freeCodeCamp and got several certifications required to prove my abilities. After a few months of intense study, I was able to put together a portfolio which I keep working on to improve and expand day by day. Today, I still keep studying to learn more about different JavaScript libraries and back-end technologies like NextJS and NodeJS to become a full-stack developer.

I also have a huge interest in visual media. I have been involved with camerawork for the last four years and created a portfolio on stage photography.
